A Message From the Dean of Men...

OFFICE OF THE
DEAN OF MEN

MEN of LOYOLA

When we take a close look at the reasons for student discontent on most university campuses, one complaint stands out over all others. The student is made to feel that he is more mechanical than human. A computer figuratively determines his every action while on campus. The age of automation has brought its blessings to man in an economic sense; however, it has created a dehumanizing process reminiscent of Orwell's 1984.

University specialists in student life programs have been frantically searching for ways to offset the effects of automation on campus life. One of the most effective means yet devised to achieve this end is fraternity and sorority affiliation. Fraternities are closely knit groups of young men who know one another well enough to talk together about the most personal and disturbing matters which confront them. Fraternity members work together for the achievement of the most noble of goals — the brotherhood of man. Both the stated ideals and the day to day means used to achieve them make fraternities more meaningful to today's university student than to the students who founded them in the nineteenth century.

No one can say that fraternal affiliation is the ideal answer for every university student. Each man and woman must assess his own needs and desires in relation to what a given fraternity has to offer. The final decision is a very personal one which involves a deep life-long commitment.

I recommend that each student give serious consideration to joining a fraternal society. Anyone who may wish to discuss the pros and cons as they pertain to himself is welcome to conversation on the matter in my office.

Roderick C. Shearer
Dean of Men

What Is A Fraternity?

A fraternity, as defined by a leading fraternity manual is "A select group of men with similar ideals, hopes and purposes bonded together by deep friendship and mutual understanding."

This simple definition gives the basis of membership in a fraternity. With the friendship and understanding that is found and nourished in a fraternity, the raw youth of a college sophomore can be changed into the maturity and self-confidence of a man.

In a fraternity you have the experience of getting along with anywhere from twenty to fifty other college students with many varied interests. Your relations with each different type of person will help prepare you for later life.

In every fraternity you are encouraged to develop qualities of leadership. You are given endless opportunities to take charge and implement programs for the fraternity, or to assume a leadership post.

As a student enters college he might find himself oppressed by the system, or is apt to find himself critical of the "establishment". In a fraternity there are no pre-set ways, the future is yours and you are given the responsibility of ensuring the success and very life of the fraternity. There are ideals to be grasped and to believe in.

Among the many benefits of a fraternity are these: Fraternities develop personality, promote mutual understanding, assist in orientation, induce co-operative living, offer advice and counsel, encourage scholarship, broaden outside interests and prepare you for later social and business life.

And Now, A Look at our Fraternities...

Delta

Epsilon

Rho

Delta Epsilon Rho Fraternity

Delta Epsilon Rho is the young fraternity at Loyola College. It is for this reason that we offer new brothers a place to prove old ideas and test new ones. Our numbers are few, but our determination runs high, as is shown by the interfraternity record of Delta Epsilon Rho. We are never ones to leave a stone unturned for, as we are number two, we must try harder. The life of a brother of Delta Epsilon Rho is not a bowl of cherries as there are many growing pains through which we must pass. It is in solving that we may grow as a healthy, united fraternity. Aggressive, open minds such as yours are needed, if we are to achieve this goal.

THETA SIGMA FRATERNITY

In May of 1965, three Loyola men set about the founding of a new fraternity. Theta Sigma is now the oldest local fraternity at Loyola. Theta Sigma numbers 114 in three years of existence and now has 38 active members. Our house is located at 6440 Sherbrooke St. W., Apt. 2.

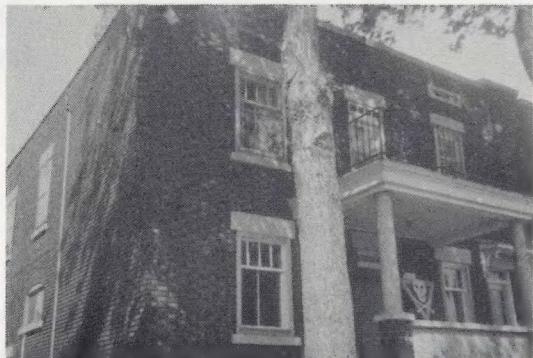

As defined by our constitution, our chief aim is that of acquiring true brotherhood among all our members through understanding, respect and trust for one another. It is by working for ourselves, our brothers and our fraternity that we attain our goals.

Theta Sigma, as a local fraternity, devotes all its energies to the needs of the Loyola man. Since our founding, we have maintained a rather unique diversification of personalities and interests. Theta Sigs are involved in almost every part of campus life - FRA, Homecoming, Carnival, LMSA executive, Loyola News, and many more, not to mention our varsity athletes. At the same time, we stress academics and our average has never been below the all-men's-average on campus.

The activities of our fraternity are designed to involve all the brothers, and to help them attain that part of education that cannot be had in the classroom. Theta Sigs are always trying to improve our programs for athletics, rushing, pledging, scholarship, social, and a diversified number of special projects.

Theta Sigma is a fraternity for life, and the alumni association is a manifest example of this. The alumni are there not only to assist us, but to participate with us in any way it can.

The strength of Theta Sigma lies in her unity of spirit which, however, leaves ample room for diversity and personal development. With all this, Theta Sigma offers its prospective members the best possible opportunity for fulfilling their years at Loyola.

most recognizable to men as men. Fraternal organizations are the best way to meet other men who have the same interests and hobbies. Fraternal organizations are the greatest way to meet other men who have the same interests and hobbies as you.

Fraternities are organizations with the primary purpose of bonding the members together, creating a sense of community and belonging. Fraternities are also a great way to meet other men who have the same interests and hobbies as you. Fraternities are also a great way to meet other men who have the same interests and hobbies as you.

Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, with over 230 chapters across the United States and Canada, is the Fastest growing North American fraternity. A teke may visit any of these chapters and will be welcomed as a frater in bond.

Tau Kappa Epsilon regards men "not for wealth, rank or honor, but for personal worth and character".

Founded in 1899, Tau Kappa Epsilon has chapters in public and private colleges and universities of almost all religious faiths.

Known as "The Fraternity for Life", Tau Kappa Epsilon has alumni clubs and associations in most large cities in the United States and Canada.

As well as encouraging scholastic excellence in its members TKE provides opportunities for development of the physical, spiritual, social, leadership and service to fellow man and community.

RUSH FUNCTIONS: SEPT. 24, 27, 28, 30; OCT. 2, 4, 6

Phi Kappa Theta

During the next month you will be confronted with the question of whether or not to join a fraternity, and if so, you'll have to decide which one is for you. We feel that this decision is an important one and hence we urge you to consider the fact that Phi Kappa Theta is an outstanding fraternity... a fact reflected by its men, its reputation and its tradition.

Phi Kappa Theta offers you an interesting and active association with one of the most rapidly expanding international organizations in the country... a fraternity which now numbers 72 chapters and 15 colonies throughout Canada and the United States. On the local level, Canada Alpha Chapter offers you a challenging membership in a young, progressive-minded chapter... one which spearheaded the fraternity movement on this campus four years ago and pioneered the way in fraternity housing.

More than that however, Phi Kappa Theta stands for brotherhood and a well-balanced atmosphere within which the individual has the opportunity to exercise his abilities and to mature socially, mentally and physically. Just ask any Phi Kap. You'll find him in SAC, the News Room, on the LMAA, the football field, the hockey rink, the basketball court, in RAC, the library, the Caf and at the B.V.T. If he's your kind of guy, then this is the fraternity for you!

Think Big. . .

Think Phi Kappa Theta!

A Word From the I.F.C. Adviser. . .

College Fraternities were founded about 250 miles from here in 1825 at Union College. They have grown since to include well over a million initiated members and over five thousand chapters at almost a thousand different colleges and universities in North America.

Almost any Loyola man will gain an extra dimension to his educational experience if he chooses to join one of our fraternities. It is a laboratory in human relations which no course work can duplicate. To reap this advantage however, a prospective member must be prepared to contribute some effort to the organization aspects of the fraternity while he is at the college. Acceptance of the organizational aspects of the fraternity while he is at the college. Acceptance of membership also presupposes the intention to continue active membership thru the college years, and many fraternity men continue their interest beyond college as alumni, gaining rich experiences working with college men and continuing old and making new friendships.

George V. Uihlein
Assistant Dean of Men

. . . And the I.F.C. President

Fraternities on Loyola Campus, although a mere five years old, have instilled a new by-word in the vocabulary of all male undergraduates. That word: brotherhood.

As Sophomores you now have one year of college life to had to your character formation. This year you have the opportunity to enrich yourselves to an even greater extent by learning what it means to co-operate and live with your fellow men. Make use of this chance, make an effort to discover what fraternities encompass and how they will encourage you to mature and develop into a whole person.

William Marcotte
President I.F.C.

The Interfraternity Council at Loyola

In January of 1967, the four social fraternities on Loyola of Montreal campus (Theta Sigma, Sigma Delta Phi, Kappa Chi and Delta Epsilon Rho) created their own Interfraternity Council (IFC) and its constitution was accepted by the Board of Directors of student association.

The IFC is the means by which fraternities co-ordinate their activities, exchange ideas, and negotiate with the administration of the college and the student association. The IFC is active with NIC (National Interfraternity Council) and thus benefits at its conventions from fraternities across the United States.

In the past the IFC has co-ordinated interfraternity schedules of touch football, basketball, broomball and hockey. It regulates the competition for the Blood Drive Trophy and acts as the main goodwill agent for the fraternities on campus.

The IFC has worked with the fraternities and administration to formulate a housing policy acceptable to both parties, and thus Loyola sees its first fraternity housing on campus with the property being rented from the college, this fall.

The IFC, like the fraternities on campus, is an autonomous body supported by the member fraternities and completely independent from administration and student association. In the past it has maintained strong friendly ties with these two groups, with the end result of reaching an ideal state which has permitted the fraternities a faster rate of growth than otherwise possible.

This fall the IFC is co-ordinating Greek Week events and is sponsoring Loyola's first combined rush. The Greek Week will enable the students to be more fully exposed to the fraternities. There are two internationals on campus now, with Kappa Chi becoming Tau Kappa Epsilon and Sigma Delta Phi becoming Phi Kappa Theta. Along with the two locals Theta Sigma and Delta Epsilon Rho, they will be hosting many events during Rushing and the males on campus will be given the opportunity to visit each fraternity.

The IFC is still growing and only in the next two or three years will its real worth be appreciated.
